THURSDAY, APR. 9, 1964

Register!

Now is the time. You cannot vote unless you are registered and you cannot register or change your registration within 30 days of an election so Saturday, April 11, is the final day. If you will be 21 before November 3 you can vote in the Primary, May 12 if you register. Voting is both a privilege and an obligation. Be sure you are registered, then be sure to vote.

A trip to the Greenbrier and the State Woman's Club Convention recently brought a rare political treat—seeing and hearing all of the candidates for governor on one platform (except for Harold Cutright, who developed a sore throat and couldn't be present). They were limited to five minutes each so that didn't give much time after they made the usual laudatory remarks to the Women's Clubs. Julius Singleton drew for first appearance and chose to emphasize his interest in a literacy program and help for the retarded in the state. Bonn Brown presented a desire for an education program with emphasis on primary schools, kindergarten on a voluntary basis, at least one vocational school in each county, incentive pay for teachers, and a strong mental health program. Hulett Smith confidently spoke of West Virginia as being on the march and he was confident of continuing advances, making for a better future for the children of West Virginia; he noted the needs of tourism and industrial expansion, hoped for more women in government. Harry Cupp promised efficient, economic and clean government, a planning conference with all interested groups, miner's welfare supported by resources tax, end some taxes or use for education, and full value received for the tax dollar; the timber had a hard time cutting him off. Cecil Underwood gave forth with some smooth oratory with some uncomplimentary quotations about politics in West Virginia, which happened to have been written in 1960 when he was governor. Disregarding that, he promised to extend the clean-up program to the voting booth. He pledged a full dollar state service for each tax dollar, a sales campaign for the state's industrial might, to combine our resources with scientific advances, and a record breaking road building campaign. Mrs. Freda Cavendish caught my fancy and if I were a Republican I would vote for her. She is attractive and energetic and, while serious about her campaign, seemed to be able to see the humorous side of it also. She supports the road bond issue, spoke of education needs and increased teacher's salaries, and welfare needs. It was an unusual experience.

That night Dr. Dwayne Orton, editor of THINK of the I. B. M. Corporation, spoke of the changes being wrought in our time and the necessity for man with a moral rightness to control the almost unbelievable machines he is creating. He is convinced brains will represent the capital investments of the next decade, and that education will affect society in the next 50 years as the automobile did in the past 50 and the railroads did in the half century before that. Think on that.

Back to the candidates. It was like a campaign in miniature and I still hold for Hulett Smith. I have thought the last few years that he deserves the nomination this time and he has worked hard and capably for progress in West Virginia. He knows and can carry on the development plans.

The political campaign is beginning to warm up a little and the verbal attacks are beginning to fly. But let me remind you the Barron administration has been a good one with a positive record of economic improvement, good road treatment practical measures like the Clean-Up program, educational improvements, mental health emphasis, etc. Don't let the opposition becloud the matters. And on any proof of undesirable actions he has intervened. There will be lots of talk picking at the edges but the progress has been substantial.

POAGES

It is believed the Presbyterians in the Old Stone Church area began to gather for worship about 1737, probably meeting in homes of the people, since no reference is found concerning an organized church until 1740 when Dr. Craig assumed the pastorate and the stone edifice was authorized to be constructed.

Old Stone Church was completed in 1747; dedicated in 1749; and the present wings added in 1922. It served as a fort during the Indian wars after General Braddock's defeat.

Information to this effect is contained on a bronze marker erected on an exterior wall of the church about 1925 by the Colonel Thomas Hughart Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution.

In the newer churchyard there are stones mentioning four Poages, as follows:

John H. Poage died June 13, 1870, 80 years, 11 months, and 7 days.

James Poage, (born) November 15, 1826, died at the age of 71 year, 7 months, and 12 days.

Nancy S., wife of James Poage, (died) January 8, 1870, aged 57 years, 6 months, and 22 days.

Poage, baby son of W. N. and M. V. Wilson. No dates appear on this stone.

The name Poage is associated with Old Stone Church's communion service which was made in England in or near 1767. It is still in use—at least every quarter when this ritual is observed.

When not in use one Sunday each three months, the silver is maintained in a glass display case in the church's museum. It consists of three flacons, six goblets, and two bread plates. It is believed that originally there were three plates.

The cost of this communion service is not known, but it is reported that when purchased it represented the price of a good sized plantation.

For insurance purposes today the service is given this value; goblets, $100 each; trays, $100 each; flacons $350 each.

These are estimated to be replacement cost.

In her book "Stories of the Shenandoah," Mrs. Gladys Bauserman Clem of this city recounts that a Poage of the gentler sex, believed to have been Margaret Poage, saved that communion service from being shipped back to England.

When it arrived the price was said to have been far more than the congregation had expected, so the feeling was it should be returned. However, Margaret Poage arose and said she would give the money she had been saving for silver spoons for her own table to ward purchasing the communion silver. Her gift caused other members of the congregation to make new and special efforts to contribute. The silver was saved.

Later Margaret's husband ordered six silver spoons from England for her; so her long desire was fulfilled. Five of these spoons are said to have come into the possession of Mrs. Augusta Harmon Pattie, of Waynesboro. The sixth went to Poage from Texas. Since "P" was engraved on the spoons, the family agreed Mrs. Pattie should have them. She is a direct descendant in the Poage line.

About twelve miles northwest of Old Stone Church is a stone dwelling, now occupied by Mrs. Margaret Carroll, a descendant of the Poages. This house is said to be the original Poage residence in the Valley of Virginia.

End of series on the Poage family and its associations in the Valley of Virginia and in Southern Ohio.

E. P. Dille, of Marlinton Motor Sales, attended a three-day Ford Motor Company truck sales workshop in Clarksville, recently.

Mrs. Charles Carpenter, of Seebert, received a letter from her daughter, Mrs. Leona Butlerbaugh, at Jacksonville, Florida. They had kite contests for the school children from about 67 schools. They built their own kites. Her son, Charlie, built one and decorated it (the first time he had done anything like that). He won second prize for the best decorated kite and a red ribbon for flying it. He is really proud of it and his mother is proud of him as he had a lot of competition.
